Dear Ms. Yorker,

My name is [redacted], and I'd like to file a complaint with the commission under the Civil Rights Act, title VI U.S.C. 2000.

I've filed a complaint in the U.S. Court and the case is currently pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

I think I have been a victim of bias in the U.S. Courts, they dismissed my case for no reason at all. All documents are available to support this statement.

On May 28th 1999, I was evicted from a program ~~[illegible]~~ owned and operated by [redacted].

I felt as though I was harrassed and discriminated against while participating in a federally assisted program. I called the authorities on four different occassions.

The last incident was when a female in the program went to prison and returned to the program. The convicted felon pulled a knife on me for whistle-blowing her whereabouts. [redacted] had me evicted by the Court behind this incident Even though the convicted felon, just released for prison on drug charges did not pay his rent in full and remained in the federally assisted program (this convicted felons' written testimony, argument was accepted in the U.S District Court without cross-examination)!

The wickedness in this case is unbelievable. If this bureaucracy think that this matter deserves futher inquiry, and make a finale disposition I would be thankful because I am unrepresent in the U.S Courts thereby experincing biasness.
