The community meeting at Lane Co is live and being promoted actively. See below. I'm not sure we have connected the community engagement group (Uei as the rep in this email) and the JIC, have we? I know the JIC is already thinking about the media attention that will come with it.

Uei: For comms purposes, and idea Jonathan and I batted around was quickly scheduling and announcing several community meetings. If people see there are several meetings, one a week or so in different neighborhoods, it may help take attention off of the Lane Middle School one. Otherwise they may see Lane as their best, last chance to hear from us. Could you float that by your community engagement group?

And does each agency know who is approved to talk at meetings (who is in their "speakers bureau"?) For OHA, Jonathan: Can you tell me the name of comms-approved people that can represent OHA at any of these meetings (Lynne, Cieslak, Farrer, who else?) Julie Black as Plans Chief is also Resource Unit Leader and should be the one to get requests for OHA speakers at an event and check their availability. We need to centralize this process like this. First time might be bumpy, but I'm sure we'll be smooth by the 10th meeting or so.

Thanks,

Eric

        - Great work by the South Portland Air Quality group to get a community meeting scheduled on the air toxics crisis in their neighborhoods! Worried about Precision Cast Parts and McClure Industries? Join your neighbors March 15th. Link to event
            - Event details: We are pleased to announce that a community meeting will be held at Lane Middle School on March 15, 2016 (TIME TBD, despite FB forcing a time to be assigned) about air toxics. This is your chance to show up, learn more, and ask questions.

              This meeting is inspired by the large community meetings that were held at Cleveland HS and Hariet Tubman over community concerns on air toxics, and will focus on air and soil pollution issues in SE Portland and Milwaukie. We have confirmation from PPS for the use of the space, and appreciate Principal Brenda Fox's gracious offer to use her school for this important community meeting. We also have confirmed that Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ), Oregon Health Authority (OHA), and the Multnomah County Health Department will be attending. Arrangements for other panelists are currently being made.

              Please mark your calendars, invite your friends and neighbors, share this event via Facebook, and stay tuned for more details.
