Re: February 21, 2008 General Notice of Potential Responsibility
Yosemite Creek Superfund Site

Dear Mr. Massey:

I write on behalf of eleven companies that received General Notice Letters dated February 21, 2008, from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA"). EPA has identified them (or companies related to them) as potentially responsible parties ("PRPs") at the Yosemite Creek Superfund Site in San Francisco, California (the "Site"). The eleven are:

Ashland, Inc. (for Ashland Chemical Co., a division of Ashland, Inc.)
General Motors Corporation
Lockheed Martin Corporation (for Lockheed Missiles)
Maxus Energy Corporation (for Diamond Shamrock)
NL Industries, Inc. (for Spencer Kellogg)
Redwood Oil Company
Romic Environmental Technologies Corporation (for Romic Chemical)
The Pennzoil-Quaker State Company dba SOPUS Products (for Pennzoil Co.)
Simpson Coatings Group, Inc. (for Simpson Coatings (Organic Coatings))
Textron, Inc.
Univar USA Inc. (for ChemCentral and for Van Waters & Rogers, Inc.)

Contact information for these responding companies is provided in Attachment A to this letter. Each one of them (or companies related to them) previously had been identified as a PRP at the Bay Area Drum State Superfund site and was a member of the PRP group at that site. These responding companies now are in the process of forming a PRP group at the Yosemite Creek site and retaining the law firm of Beveridge & Diamond, P.C. to represent the group with respect to the Site. Please direct future correspondence regarding these companies and the Site to me at the address above.

Sincerely,

Nicholas W. van Aelstyn
