Thanks for the heads up. Next week would be good to find a suitable replacement.

FYI – We have lost Jim Clark. With the time needed to review the abstracts I will get to finding a replacement sometime next week.

Gene, I am going to have to respectfully withdraw my commitment to participate in the workshop and panel discussions.

It seems that industry feels that there is sufficient representation and expertise to present their perspectives and interpretations of risk for the meeting. Therefore, there has been no support from individual companies or API for my involvement.

Due to the costs of registration, travel, and the time commitment I feel necessary to prepare appropriately for the workshop, I have decided to not attend.

I hope you still have sufficient time to organize a strong panel discussion and find a viable replacement. Best of luck with the workshop.

Jim Clark
