Hello All: June was not a good month for Port Discovery Seafarms. We had a 20% mortality in adult oysters and up to 100% mortality in planted seed. The problems seemed to start a few weeks ago shortly after the westerlies started up. The events mirror last year.
IMG 1976 and 1972 show the yellow stain that arrived shortly before the mortality. Will have to check it may be within a week of last years arrival.
IMG 1940 is oyster seed planted earlier this month. All of the seed in this photo has died.

Could you please update me on your study?
