Hi Dave, just a couple of notes from yesterday's call

•□□□□□□□□ Patty had already revised the passive sampler plan based on comments and posted it on the sharepoint site. The work detailed in the plan is scheduled to begin next Tuesday. However, Battelle will be out in the field on Monday to collect some sediment for an internally funded R&D project – they'll be installing passive samplers in that material in the lab for an ex-situ/in-situ comparison. Battelle will also be installing a few additional passive samplers in the field to provide insight into vertical variations (also internally funded). Give Patty a call if you would like more detail, or we can include a summary as part of next week's call.

•□□□□□□□□ We've started on a conceptual model of contaminant migration pathways along the shoreline (attached) that we can refer to as the actual data start coming in.

We're planning for another call next Thursday (13 July) at 1:00. Have a good weekend – Steve

Hi Dave, thanks for the heads up. I don't think you'll miss too much today – Patty's going to go through the comments on/revisions to the passive sampler plan and Mike and I are going through what will be updated from Brown and Caldwell's modeling approach. We'll provide you with a summary. You picked a good week to be off – enjoy! - Steve
