Yolanda,

Yes, the "access code" are the number to enter as the meeting ID when prompted after launching the Go-To-Meeting URL. I do not think that you have to manually type in the dashes. I think that they automatically populate.

Correct – to listen to the audio they would dial the teleconference number and enter the access code followed by the # sign at the prompt.

Thanks,

Marc

Marc,

Sorry for the multiple emails, I must have overlooked when you sent the information.

Can you help me understand what the "access code" is? Is this a code to tune in to the webinar? If so, do they need to type in the dashes (-)?

Webinar URL: https://global.gotomeeting.com/join/[redacted]

Webinar Access code: [redacted]

And, to confirm... someone would connect to the audio by

Teleconference Call-In Number: [redacted]

Teleconference Access Code:[redacted]

Lynda,

Below is a webinar link and conference call information for inclusion in the final meeting agenda/invite. I believe that EPA was going to check in with the Sherriff's Office to see if they could provide us access to their internet or a speaker phone (or outside land line) this year – any word back?
