Hi Jae,
Here are a few non-substantive editorial comments from me. Elizabeth noted that if you follow the link in footnote number 1 it takes you to the abstract, but you cannot access the full text of the article unless you pay for it or have an account. We can see it on our work computers because we have access, but I tried it on my phone and it only gives me the options to login or to purchase the article. Is there another way to provide a link to the article?
Have a great weekend.
Sheila

Hi All,
As most of you know by now the letters from ATSDR re: urine sampling results went out yesterday. Attached is a set of embargoed talking points we'd like to have finalized by COB Monday, which makes for a kind of short turnaround time. So I have to ask you with apologies for the quick response requested to please take a look at these and get me your comments by noon Monday.

Thanks,
Jae

Hi Jae -- Thank you for sending the draft for comment. Just a suggestion:

In Do any of the results indicate there is a health risk? can we delete the last sentence? or at least clarify it. This sentence was a little bit confusing for me when I first read it; i.e., "that" level of 200 is approximately seven times the highest level measured of 30.

Have a great weekend!
