I took out "the" before Superfund money in the last sentence and also replaced "us" with "EPA."
Thx,
kelly

Tightened it up a bit more to clarify meeting participants and flow.

Here are some minor edits that tighten the language a bit.

EPA Region 9 Regional Administrator, Jared Blumenfeld, and his staff attended several meetings in the Yerington area on March 2. Mr. Blumenfeld met with local agriculture business representatives and city and county officials. The Nevada Division of Environmental Protection was also present at these meetings in Yerington. Mr. Blumenfeld and his staff also met with representatives from the Yerington Community Action Group, the Yerington Paiute Tribe, and the Walker River Paiute Tribe. All parties engaged in a constructive dialogue regarding the possibility of placing the Anaconda Mine Site on the NPL. Mr. Blumenfeld answered a number of questions regarding the proposed listing and clarified some information referenced in his prior correspondence with Governor Sandoval on this issue. Mr. Blumenfeld has requested that Governor Sandoval provide his response to EPA's request for the State's position on NPL listing for the Site by March 29, 2016. EPA is currently awaiting the Governor's response.

The EPA contends listing the site on the NPL will make Superfund money available for site cleanup when other sources of funding are not available and will allow EPA to move forward with remedies that will ensure containment of mine site contamination and protection of groundwater resources. In addition, the NPL process provides closure and certainty to the local community, property owners and potentially responsible parties.

top line messages about why we are pushing for NPL listing: funding is not currently secure, and we need to ensure progress will be made on the cleanup. We need to gather up the correspondence on this (both EPA's and the Governor's response) to give to the reporter, along with a contact at NDEP if she wants to follow up. We have a little time, since Margot can send this response back tomorrow afternoon. Thanks.
