Hi,

I have not heard back from NJ but according to SDWIS and Drinking Water Watch it appears they are resolved.

Ok so the story is there are no violations reported by njdep that support nrdcs claim besides the one wqp monitoring violation from 2016.

Need to know what njdep says and if they have complied with wqp monitoring this year and therefore returned to compliance.

What are the violations that have been reported for them regarding lead and copper rule?

We know they exceeded the action level but that is not a violation.

We know there is the potential that WQP have not been set for them which is consistent with other systems in NJ but that is not a violation by the system.

What does NJDEP say about the violations NRDC is alleging?

Do you have a draft fact sheet for our review?

Thanks Doug
