Okay, so please note that I meant Thursday, March 14 (not March 18) for a Yakima Weekly meeting. Please be looking for an invite that Matt will be sending out. Thx.

All –

Our ever hard-working team is within a few responses of having a complete set of comment responses for our review. With some final clean-up, Mike tells me that I can expect to get the package from him this afternoon. This puts us a bit late on our expected schedule, but still doing pretty well considering some of the distractions of the past several days. My direction to the team is to remain focused on March 15 as the target date for completing the response to comments, which in turn should allow EPA to close the AR in support of signing the settlement agreement.

So here are the steps I see near term:

1. I will plan to forward the comment responses to you as soon as I receive them;
2. I recommend we proceed with the ET-level check-in scheduled for tomorrow at 2:15; my sense is that there are a number of things to touch on even if we focus less on the comment responses than I had originally envisioned;
3. I ask that you provide me feedback on the comment responses (if you are going to) by noon on Monday, March 11;
4. I'll work with the team to address your comments; we'll schedule discussion time, as needed; and
5. Assuming we stay on track, I'll try to set up a Yakima Weekly Update for us on 3/18 as a (hopefully) last check to confirm we are on track for finalizing the responses.

Please note that at this point our 3/15 target does not assume also incorporating appropriate changes into a revised report; we'll have to continue to look at what those changes should be and what schedule is doable for that "final" step.

Please let me know if you have questions.

DanO.

Subject: Response to Comments for ET-level Review

All –

Heads up that I am hearing today from Mike Cox that he believes he can get to me Thursday morning a complete set of draft responses to comments on our Sept 2012 Yakima groundwater report. He is hoping that we can turn around feedback by COB Friday, which is pretty tight, as expected, so I wanted to give you a little advanced warning to consider how you might be able to shift around your own calendar(s) to accommodate the review you expect to do.

Unless I hear otherwise, I will assume that all of the "tos" on this message will want to see a set of the responses. We don't have a "Yakima weekly" scheduled for this week as far as I can tell, but I am happy to set something up, maybe mid-afternoon on Friday?

Meanwhile, I'll let you know if I hear any changes to what I have indicated here.

Thanks. DanO.
