Hi Ken,
This issue has been discussed in TAG meetings. Sampling farther north is more difficult because the water becomes considerably deeper north of the proposed sampling area. The Corps has acknowledged they would have to do additional sampling in the future to confirm (hopefully) that the sampling area extends sufficiently far north. The attached email from Laura Shira (Yakama Nation) includes their review comments. Laura also included our review comments from Dec 19, which we shared with her when we sent them to the Corps.

Hey Bob,

I've only scanned the sampling approach, but my biggest issue with it is that it appears to be very narrow in scope in terms of coverage - only looking at the nearshore areas, while excluding most of the in water OU from consideration. This gets to the Tribes concern about determining nature and extent. I'm curious if the Tribe has signed off on this approach. Ken
