Hello Mr. Red Cloud,
I am sorry I have not gotten that info to you. I didn't realize how long it would take me to compile the list of changes in the 8 draft documents. I just finished that today and sent it for internal review. I hope to have it in final form sometime tomorrow, Monday at the latest.

Mr. Red Cloud,
I will start working on answers to the questions below and get back to you with answers tomorrow.

Just to clarify that our Tribal Consultation with the Oglala Sioux Tribe does not have a deadline like the public comment period for the draft permits. If the Tribe would like to submit comments during the public comment period, that is great, but the Tribal Consultation Process is another avenue to share comments and concerns with the EPA about the UIC draft permits and related documents for the record that is not tied to a deadline.

Subject: Questions, on the UIC "Draft' Water Permits.

Greetings, Valois:

I have (4) questions on the Dewey-Burdock, Underground Injection Control – "DRAFT" Water Permits:

1. What triggered the re-issuance of the 'DRAFT' 2017 Water Permits?
2. When was the decision made to re-issue the Water Permits? And by whom?
3. What are the substantive differences between the 2017 and the 2019 "DRAFT' Water Permits?
4. Is there a document that compares the 2017 and 2019 "DRAFT' Water Permits.

I just wanted to ask you if you could respond to these questions so I can have a better understanding of the UIC – 'DRAFT" Water Permits for the upcoming Oglala Sioux Tribe and EPA
Consultation. Your response to my questions will be greatly appreciated.
