Chris – here is a markup version that shows changes to the document I sent you earlier this morning. I've also sent a clean version. The two are not identical since I was able to more easily make formatting and other small adjustments once I got rid of the markup, so please use the clean version going forward. There are still a couple of placeholders in here and Byron has not seen this yet so he may have some additional input. Please also let us know if you think of other questions or other background information that would be helpful. Wishing you a great trip, and hope you can watch the Penn State game from wherever you are next Saturday.
