There is nothing to endorse right now, though, and that's what Adam Zipkin understood. EPA is still in the midst of analyzing alternatives and firming up our preliminary determination that a partial (or targeted) remedy is not protective. We could still change our minds, if the science leads us that way. By the end of this year, when we publish the Focused Feasibility Study (which analyzes all of the alternatives) and the Proposed Plan (which describes EPA's preferred remedy) for public comment, THAT is when the Environmental Council or the Newark Mayor's office should write in support of EPA's preferred remedy or to tell us why we should change our proposal.

Clifton went well too. They understood better how we are approaching the clean up and seemed to appreciate learning something of the science behind what we are doing in the river.

Great. I followed up with him about setting up the larger briefing b/c I would really like a resolution and the Enviro Council to endorse the FFS. I'll keep you posted. How did it go with clifton?

It went very well. Ray Basso and I agreed afterwards that Adam Zipkin asked intelligent questions and obviously understood the Superfund process of getting to a remedy that we were explaining. He gave us over an hour of his time, which was unexpected from my point of view, given how busy he must be. Damon and Stephanie are familiar faces from previous meetings, so that they understood what we presented and asked good questions was as usual. Thank you for setting the briefing up for us.

I wanted to let you know that Janine MacGregor of NJDEP would like to join our briefing tomorrow (4/3) at 3pm. We have worked closely with NJDEP in developing options for the cleanup. Please let me know if this is a problem.

Thanks for the location and room number.

Please let me know if you would prefer a projector presentation or handouts. If projector, let me know if I should bring one. If handouts, how many copies should I bring?

Also, the presentation is about ½ hr – please let me know if you would prefer that I shorten it.

3:00 tomorrow at City Hall in Newark. Yolanda, what is the room number?

Damon and Stephanie, would you and Adam prefer handouts or a projector presentation? Please let Alice know.

Thanks. Glad you are all getting together.
