I said from the beginning that I thought APHIS should have been involved in our discussions. I was told we needed to deal with Oxitec first.

Thanks! It makes me think again that at some point we need to have discussion with all 3 agencies together regarding GE insects. Seems lately most of the discussion has been only EPA and FDA, but am wondering down the road if new products will make jurisdiction less clear. Particularly with APHIS-Vet Services and the Livestock Health Protection Act. Whad'ya think? (Don't answer, Oh Great, another meeting☺
