On August 2, 2017, three farm labor contractor crews, totaling 167 individuals, were harvesting garlic in a field where 92 fieldworkers reported experiencing symptoms. Symptoms reported included: headache, feeling dizzy, and watery, irritated, and burning eyes. A shank application of Vapam HL had been completed to the site adjacent to the garlic field being harvested. Also, an aerial application of Vulcan was being made to an alfalfa field, located 3/4 of a mile Southwest from the garlic field, at the same time the field workers were harvesting.

Enforcement Action Pending.
