Thank you so much for the check list and maps.

Unfortunately, the maps fail to identify the locations of the individuals that are alleging discriminatory actions by the Hawaii Dept. of Agriculture. The location of the affected neighborhoods in relation to the seed companies would be helpful.

Does such a map exist?

Delanie

Delanie & Andrew,

I also meant to send you both the procedural safeguard check list that we discussed during our phone call. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Good morning,

In response to your request, we followed up with Paul Achitoff at Earthjustice and he provided the attached maps which show the areas of concern. In addition, the following includes Paul's brief description of the maps.

"I'm attaching copies of maps portraying seed production areas on Kaua'i and Moloka'i, since those areas feature intensive, frequent pesticide use. For Kaua'i, we are specifically interested in the areas designated as "seed production" that are within the Kekaha-Waimea and Kamakani-Hanepepe census tracts. For Moloka'i, we are interested in all areas designated as "seed production." Since production areas change these maps can offer only a general guide; Hawai'i Department of Agriculture and Agribusiness Development Corporation have access to current locations."

Please note that we are working on scheduling our next meeting with you both for next month. Thank you.
