This is the latest email – we do not need to provide a badge to the drivers, but we still miss the following 12 people. Mauro just called and 5 slots should be available very soon, but they are not enough!

Dear Mauro,

Alexis is out today and I wanted to follow up on the extra badges. We greatly appreciate the efforts you have made thus far.

One issue is outstanding. It is urgent that we get the entire US delegation registered, including our Side Event Participants and the drivers. We still do not have access to add additional delegates. Can you please work with us and the US Embassy Rome to rectify this today?

Subject: Extra Badge Request - U.S.A.

Dear Mauro,

We would like to respectfully request 14 additional badges for the U.S. government delegation. All of these people have distinct and important functions within the delegation, so the order provided is not a ranking, though we did try to organize them by function. All badges requested for the following people would be Delegate Blue. In addition, per our previous conversations with the Logistica team, we will be requesting 2 floating red badges and assume we can have delegates share these at their discretion on-site. Please let us know if you have any questions or require any additional information and we will be happy to provide it as soon as possible. We greatly appreciate the support of the Italian government in this matter and are looking forward to the meetings.

As detailed below in the numbered list #1-14, we request one (1) extra badge for Ex. 7(c) Ex. 7(c) who could have Delegate Blue or Security Gray, depending on your recommendation.

Ex. 7(c)

Seven (7) extra badges are requested to cover the high-level speakers we have confirmed for Side Events with Firms & Universities, per Italy's request. We know that we have already filled the slots available for them, but we really had to secure a blue badge for high-level people and officials essential to the EPA delegation (see our complete delegation at the end of this message).

If the security personnel do end up having a different type of (gray) badge, we will be glad to make these replacements in the online system.
