Thanks Alexis. I think this is a positive step, and will be one of the first actual commitments by the County to do something! For what it's worth, they also committed to enhanced effluent monitoring, which begins this month.

Hi Alexis,

We are very close to reaching a deal on this enforcement action, so I thought I would be sure you don't have any concerns or questions. The agreement we are working on -

- gets them to full non-chlorine disinfection (R1 quality for reclamation) by Dec 2013
- requires an immediate step up to R2 quality
- since treatment to R2 will be done by increased chlorination, order requires County to sample for THMs and meet specific concentration limits
- order is for compliance only, but includes stipulated penalties for violation/non-performance of specified conditions (e.g., not treating to R1 after Dec 2013)

Once we resolve the last few items - Deliberative [redacted] the County will have to take the order to their County Council (late July meeting) and then the Mayor would sign followed by you signing.

This is the crib notes version, but I'd be happy to have a lengthier discussion if you have questions.

Thanks,
David
