Thanks Hudson. I know Tina and Nancy are following up with ASO to get a better sense of the timing for release of the NTP. Let's see what we can get pinned down by Thurs.

Hi David, I'm on vacation from June 24-July 17 but would be able to go over to Maui on Monday July 18 for the tracer study. It sounds like the start date may slide again depending on DOH contract, etc but I'm available to help if Wendy is out.

Thanks,
Hudson

Hi Nancy,

I'm curious if you were able to get any commitment from DOH on the following item I sent -

DOH contract with UH for Lahaina tracer study: The Lahaina tracer study is being conducted by UH researchers funded through two separate contracts - one from Army Corps and one from DOH using GW 106 funds. The Corps' contract is in place and UH is working under it (study design, preliminary work, etc.). DOH's contract covers the dye injection and other field activities, which could start as early as next week with dye injection targeted for week of July 5th. The lead researcher at UH (Craig Glenn) was expressing a bit of angst about the timing of the DOH contract, as he wants to ensure a smooth transition between the two contracts. Hudson talked to Dan and the contract has been signed by DOH and UH. ASO is now in the process of encumbering the funds. Once this happens UH will get the contract Notice to Proceed (NTP). Dan was apparently not clear on how long this process might take, but UH needs the NTP soon. Yesterday I received an email from the Corps lead also expressing some concern that the NTP has not yet been issued, so if Stuart or Gary can do anything to speed this along, that would be helpful.

Unfortunately, I just learned that the delay in releasing DOH funds has resulted in the dye injection being pushed back 10 days already (from July 5 to July 15) and it could slip further. Thanks.
