Mike,
I am in the process of reviewing your Oct. 26 letter. I don't know if you are aware of prior testing of materials at CFAC, so as an initial matter, I thought I would bring you up to date by providing you with the attached analyses showing the CFAC materials did not test hazardous. I will also send a second email with additional attached analysis; my first email to you bounced because of attachment size.

With respect to the anode carbon and aluminum busbar, which have economic value, I do not see how these could be a waste under the ARM 17.50.502(41).

Thank you for providing your recommendations and I will discuss with Calbag.
