Thanks Julie... DEQ sort of answered, but this is helpful. I hope you feel better. Vitamin C!

My apologies! I was home sick with a cold yesterday and am still catching up on emails. Did you get an answer to your question? I need to check with the Denver team for specifics but in general sampling could be conducted by EPA and/or our contractors, or by CFAC depending on how we work out enforcement orders. All costs will be covered by CFAC or EPA and oversight of CFAC work would be conducted by EPA.

Subject: CFAC question

Hi Julie,

Senator Tester got a question over the weekend and I'm not sure which entity is responsible for well water testing around the CFAC facility in Columbia Falls. With the pending listing, I'm not all that sure who will do the monitoring. I would appreciate your insight. Here's the question as it came:

For all the families impacted who have wells in the area, and no extra money to continue doing well water testing to assure it is potable water, who will foot the bill and see it gets done, and thus pay for testing?

Thanks,
