Notes from call with Douglas on Powertech FR

Monday, March 23, 2020

It sounds like surety bonds are what PT will do for FR.

PT Comments about FR – check those out.

John proposes process used with NRC, the number of injection wells only (not production wells) expected to be constructed during the first year of operation before final permit is issued.

They will continue this procedure: injection wells only, not production wells, too each year. If production wells will be converted, they will update the FR. If more injection wells will be constructed than they anticipated, they will update the FR.
