Is this different than the Friday letter? It seems more definitive because it doesn't mention mitigation.....

The letter is still undergoing leadership review in OW and OP (and with me).

We're expecting the Corps to make an announcement today about significant degredation and mitigation. Will pass that along when I see it.

Sorry to bother but folks are still wondering about the status of the comment letter – will there be a letter today or later or not at all? Just in case you have information you can share....
Thanks.
