Hi Rob
This is Mark Prescott, I think before I departed the Coast Guard a few years ago I talked about riding into the sunset and going off to get a degree in exercise physiology. Well, that's what I have done and I currently work at a hospital in Manassas Virginia in Cardiac Rehab.

Very recently, a former employee of mine, asked if I wanted to help a company that is putting together a DWP application for an export terminal off of Texas. So, on a very limited basis, I am doing some "consulting" and helping them properly navigate the process of putting together and submitting an application. I recently inquired with CG DWP folks about vapor collection for a loading tanker that would be taking on oil at a single point mooring outside of state waters. Roddy Bachman gave me your contact info and suggested that I touch base with you.

If you have a few moments, I would like to say hello and see if EPA has considered this issue as of yet; basically how are vapors treated at a deepwater. I understand that LOOP may be looking to do similar activity so maybe this isn't unique.

thanks
Mark
