Bob – the following is the current status of the impoundment. The last I heard was that the Township had stopped use but I guess Range is proceeding. I'm guessing that the red dye in the impoundment is to see if it is leaking

I tried to send this last night and it wouldn't go... To many photos... I will break them up in separate emails.

Hi Debbie,

Mount Pleasant Twp. Supervisors issued NOV's for all 4 impoundments. Hearings were held before the township's zoning board and the zoning board agreed with the NOV's . The decision was made in January and Range has now appealed it to the Washington County Court.

Range began filling the impoundment November 2013. Per Range's attorney Shawn Gallagher "If need be, we are confident in our legal position to operate all of the impoundments in perpetuity."

We noticed the holes in the impoundment liner in November. We have many photos and video....

July 2013 – Range began power washing the impoundment
August 2013 – Power Washing the bottom of impoundment
September 2013 – Empty Impoundment
November 2013 – Range began filling the impoundment
December 2013 – Red Dye added to impoundment water

We followed some of the trucks to see where they were taking the water that was being pumped out during the power washing and the trucks hauled the water to the Bednarski Impoundment in Hopewell Twp.. Bednarski is a waste water impoundment.

We appreciate any help you can send our way...

Thanks,

Mrs (b) –

I received your voicemail last week and I am trying to find the most appropriate person in our regional office who might be able to assist with the issue on the liner. I was asked if the impoundment is back in operation or will be going back into operation. The last we heard was that the Township was not allowing it to continue and there was Public Meetings or court hearings on the issue.

Thanks and I will let you know what I can find as a point of contact.

I haven't spoken to her yet because I have nothing that I can tell her. She left me a voicemail and her husband left a voicemail on the Wheeling main number. He was actually trying to get a hold of Jim Kline (someone from Philadelphia had referred him to Jim Kline)

When I forwarded (b) (6) [redacted] email to Fran yesterday asking for direction – the message I was told was to put it into the RAV database so it would get sent to the right program for follow-up.

I have a call into Marcos Aquino to see if he has any Rad contacts at the PADEP who may know something about this

Hi Debbie,

There is now a Radioactive (DOT-SP-11406) solid waste container on the well pad adjacent to the Carter Impoundment. (photos attached) A company called SUNPRO dropped it off yesterday. Range has also removed the weir tanks from the site. We don't know what's going on and are very concerned. The DEP has not returned any of our calls regarding the Carter Impoundment for the past three weeks. Any advice would be appreciated…

Thank You,

Lora

Just an FYI from yesterday's discussion – I fully listen to (b) (6) [redacted] voicemail and her concern is the integrity of the liner and getting a Point of Contact for some assistance. Her voicemail is summarized below and this is the information I sent on to my management for further direction.

The resident claims that there are 81 holes in the liner (photos and video are available) and that PADEP has never inspected the liner or conducted soil/groundwater sampling to see the extent of contamination. The resident claims that they cannot get any information from the PADEP and that Range Resources states that they holes in the liner occurred from power washing of the liner after the impoundment was emptied. This is a real concern for the resident since the impoundment only has one liner and no monitoring wells.

The Township and Range Resources have been in legal discussions since July/August 2013 regarding the operational status of the impoundment. I am not sure of the current status of the impoundment. I did send an email to the resident asking the current status.

Just passing on as an FYI.

Hi Debbie,

I have a question… I'm curious to know what the green pump is for that is sitting by the manifolds. As you can see from the photos there is pipe running from it and going around the impoundment and entering on the side where Kim lives. They can't be using it to circulate the water because the water level is too low. Are they using the pump for chemical treatment because the water is stagnant and septic? It obvious that it's being used to pump something in and not out because of the water level.

Hi Bob and Karl

Mrs Lauff mentioned the concern over the one families' water supply. They are going to call DEP to have it sampled but wanted a way to have their own results…… As we discussed on 5/16/13 – the Penn State Extension offers sampling kits and analysis. Attached is a sample form with the available analysis with costs. Is there any of the other tests that should be recommended or just the Gas/Oil suite.

Any suggestions would be appreciated.

Thanks

This report came in last night regarding odors at the Carter Impoundment. Fire Dept did respond and did not detect anything….

Also, (b) (6) [redacted] called me yesterday to say that the son of the one resident who is a State Trooper (not in uniform) was down at the Impoundment yesterday talking to Range employees and was told that the impoundment is being taken out of service for repairs because it is leaking. The State Trooper is willing to talk with whom ever to discuss the information that he had obtained and other concerns.

Hello Deb,

Looking at this I'd say WD02 so we can get more information - including pH, TDS, iron and manganese as these would be a good comparison to baseline. She's complained of changes in WQ that include orange and black staining. Its $75.

For $30 she could just do iron and manganese but I'd still recommend the WD02 aesthetics/corrosivity package for the additional information regarding WQ.

Subject: Carter Impoundment
Hi Chad
There are too many documents to try and decide which ones may be useful and then email. I have copied all of the files/pictures that I have received from the resident and will be sending them out via pouchmail to you today.
Once you receive the CD – call if you have any questions.
